Start My Generation Leadership blog

Morgantown, W.Va., September 22, 2009: The Managing Partners of Meno Consulting are pleased to announce the creation of the My Generation Leader blog (<http://www.mygenerationleader.com>). “My Generation Leader is a site intended to examine the generational gap in business and leadership – its focus will be on exploring leadership in the context of younger professionals,” says Meno Consulting Managing Partner Dan Leidl, PhD.

Joe Frontiera, PhD, also a Managing Partner at Meno, suggests “there’s a tremendous opportunity to provide a forum for younger leaders to engage with one another to outline the definitive challenges and potential solutions to relevant concerns of our day”.

Despite the focus on emerging issues, both Frontiera and Leidl believe that My Generation Leader can be a valuable resource for leaders of different ages at diverse stages of their careers. The blog has the potential to help leaders better understand one another.
