

Meno Consulting to Present at TrainingIndustry.com's 2010 Partnering for Performance Conference

Morgantown, W.Va., April 23, 2010 - Meno Consulting managing partners, Joe Frontiera and Dan Leidl, will be presenting at TrainingIndustry.com's 2010 Partnering for Performance Conference.

The conference, taking place in Raleigh, NC on May 4-6, is intended to help organizations leverage the strategic value of learning despite the challenges of the global marketplace. Meno managing partners will be speaking specifically about the structure of learning programs. Frontiera believes, "a lot of organizations have the potential to implement incredibly powerful learning programs, but many fall short when it comes to effectively delivering the content; sometimes it can really help to think strategically about aligning business goals and training goals, and adapt the structure accordingly".

TrainingIndustry.com creates a trusted and thought-provoking environment for business and educational professionals to interact and gather information about the training industry. Through its learning communities, supplier directories, and intelligence centers, TrainingIndustry.com acts as a central repository for valuable information regarding any organizations training needs.

Meno Consulting represents a progressive approach to consulting services for corporate, non-profit, and athletic organizations, focusing on leadership and team development. The primary mission of Meno Consulting is to optimize individual and organizational performance through the promotion of effective teams and leaders. Meno Consulting was recently named to TrainingIndustry.com's 2010 Leadership Companies Watch List, recognition for Meno's achievements to date, and its refreshing approach to leadership and team development.

For more information on Meno Consulting and its services, go to www.menoconsulting.com.